This Policy describes the Personal Information that we gather from you in connection with the service(s) we deliver, how we use and disclose such information, and the steps we take to protect such information.

Depending on the level of your involvement with us the information we collect about you will vary. For example, if you are just browsing our website we will collect some information via cookies, but if you fill in a form to access one of our services the relevant form will ask you for personal information needed for us to deliver the resources and/or service(s) we deliver. This will depend on the request you are making.

This policy also tells you about your rights and choices with respect to your Personal Information, and how you can reach us to update your Personal Information or answer questions you may have regarding our privacy policy.

By using our service(s), you consent to the privacy practices described in this Policy as well as the terms of any agreement you have made with The Development Manager Ltd. In connection to the service(s) we deliver.

We are committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected, and we strictly adhere to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 2018.

The GDPR provides the following rights for individuals:

- The right to be informed
- The right of access
- The right to rectification
- The right to erasure
- The right to restrict processing
- The right to data portability
- The right to object
- Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling

What Personal Information do we collect about you?

For the purposes of this Privacy Policy, “Personal Information” means any information relating to an identified or identifiable individual. In connection with our service(s), we obtain Personal Information relating to you from various sources described below. Where applicable, we indicate whether and why you must provide us with your Personal Information, as well as the consequences of failing to do so. If you do not provide Personal Information when requested, you may not be able to benefit from our service(s) if that information is necessary to provide our service(s) to you or if we are legally required to collect it.

Personal information provided by you

We ask you to provide certain Personal Information when you apply to use our services, request a resource, indicate that you would like us to contact you, send us customer service-related requests, or use our service(s).

You may provide us with your name, email address, town, nationality, position, job role, company information, qualifications attainment, and any other information you communicate to us, such as when you contact our support team, when you provide your business card at trade shows or events.

You may also provide us with information that you add to your profile, such as a picture for your profile, depending on the type of service(s) you are requesting/using from us.

Personal Information provided by stakeholders or other service providers

Some of the services we deliver may require us to access your personal information from other sources such as government services. These sources have got their own privacy statements and make your personal information available according to their privacy policy practices. They will describe how they collect, store and use your data and are separate entities to the Development Manager Ltd. We will collect information from them when we are legally required to do so for the delivery of our service(s). If we combine the information we collect from other sources with Personal Information that we collect through our service(s) to you, we will treat the combined information as Personal Information in accordance with this Policy.

Personal Information Obtained from your Interaction with our websites or service(s) platform(s)

When you interact with our websites we use technology that helps us identify and analyse your interaction with the content and the features of these sites.

We have different platforms that serve different purposes, and these will be available to you depending on the level of service(s) we offer to you.

We use cookies, which are text files placed on your computer to collect standard internet log information and visitor behaviour information. Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website, by enabling us to monitor which pages you find useful and which you do not. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. This may prevent you from taking full advantage of the website.

We may also automatically record certain information from your device by using various types of technology, including web beacons. This automatically collected information tracks your interaction with our websites so may collect information such as your IP address or other device address or ID, web browser and/or device type, the web pages or sites that you visit just before or just after you use our website(s), the pages or other content you view or otherwise interact with on our website(s), and the dates and times that you visit, access, or use the Service(s). We also may use these technologies to collect information regarding your interaction with email messages, such as whether you opened, clicked on, or forwarded a message.

We use this information to analyse and improve our service(s), including by assessing how many users access or use our service(s), which content, products, and features of our service(s) most interest our visitors, what types of offers our customers like to see, and how our service(s) perform from a technical point of view.

We may use Google Analytics and HubSpot for improving or search engine optimisation and give our customers and visitors a better user experience. You can learn about Google's and HubSpot's practices in connection with this information collection and how to opt out of it by viewing Google's privacy options and choices and checking HubSpot's Privacy Policy.

Personal Information Obtained from Your Interaction with Social Media Tools

We may use social media tools such as LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram to promote the service(s) we deliver. These third-party buttons implemented in our websites may function as web beacons. Information collected through third-party web beacons and buttons is collected directly by these third parties, not by TDM and is subject to that third party's own data collection, use, and disclosure policies.

Our website may contain links to other websites of interest, however, once you have used these links to leave our site, you should note that we do not have any control over that other website. Therefore, we cannot be responsible for the protection and privacy of any information which you provide whilst visiting such sites and such sites are not governed by our privacy policy. You should exercise caution and look at the privacy statement applicable to the website in question.

How we may use your personal information?

Hello

When We may process your Personal Information?

We may use your personal information when:

- Where required by law, we obtain your consent for the processing of certain Personal Information, when we process Personal Information deemed sensitive pursuant to applicable law, or when we carry out other processing activities for which consent is required. If we rely on consent for the processing of your Personal Information, you have the right to withdraw it at any time, however we may not be able deliver the service(s) we provide to you if you choose to do so, this will not affect the lawfulness of the processing before your consent withdrawal.
- You may request details of personal information which we hold about you under the Data Protection Act 2018. A small fee will be payable. If you would like a copy of the information held on you please write to The Development Manager, County House, St Mary's Street, WR1 1HB.
- If you believe that any information we are holding on you is incorrect or incomplete, please write to or email us as soon as possible, at the above address. We will promptly correct any information found to be incorrect.
- Please note that these rights may be restricted and subject to conditions under applicable law.

How safe is your information?

Protecting your security and privacy is extremely important to us and we make every effort to secure your information and maintain your confidentiality in accordance with the terms of the Data Protection Act 2018. Our website(s) and platforms we use to deliver our service(s) are protected by various levels of secure technology, which are designed to protect your information from any unauthorised or unlawful access, processing, accidental loss, destruction and damage.

The information we collect is stored in secure cloud vaults that operate inside the EEA. All information is stored in an encrypted form. Information held by Microsoft or Google on our behalf may be transferred outside of the EEA but only where there are appropriate protections in place and in line with GDPR guidance.

TDM Information Security Strategy

Due to the nature of the service(s) we deliver TDM have always looked after our customers' data in line with UK and EU government guidelines and regulations. TDM have been registered with ICO since its very beginnings and we have developed a variety of policies and procedures that together form our Information Security Strategy.

All TDM's staff are inducted and trained on these policies and procedures.

We review these once a year as a minimum to keep them up to date with new regulations and guidelines.
